Furniture Plan with floor pattern

Assignment

- ▶ Come out with 3 loose floor design layouts based on your refined furniture plan
 - ▶ New tracing paper over the refined furniture plan
 - ▶ Sketch out only the floor design layout (light line)
 - ▶ Include your raised floor or platform
 - Show in transition line (light line)
 - ▶ Don't trace the architectural elements or the furniture
 - ▶ Floor pattern - line weight should be the lightest
 - ▶ When you are done with 3 layout, pick the best floor design layout
 - ▶ Then draw the chosen floor design layout on to your refined furniture plan

Concrete floor

- ▶ Cleveland artist Susie Frazier has designed new paving for a concrete floor of a transit station based on the flowing patterns created by schools of fish or flocks of birds. She was inspired by the similarities among pedestrians in transit stations and the “swarm” behavior of creatures in nature

- ▶ Floor design –radial balance

- ▶ Ceiling design – repeated on the ceiling from the floor

For centuries, architects have incorporated ornate columns, elegant cornices, and complex vaulting systems into their structures to draw the eye of the visitor upwards around the perimeter of the space. Jim Lambie, an artist in Glasgow, Scotland, demonstrates that designers have been thinking backwards for years, and what occurs below your feet is just as significant as what's above. Using thousands of lines and hundreds of meters of tape, Lambie transforms floor planes into visual masterpieces that serve to stimulate, puzzle, and awe it's inhabitants.

Though Lambie uses a variety of everyday objects in his projects, his growing fame can be accredited to his colorful vinyl tape installations being exhibited around the world. The geometric floor patterns represent more than a whimsical piece of art, it's a medium for Lambie to educate his audiences that a simple material can transform an ordinary room into an extraordinary fantasy for the senses. While the idea of vinyl tape may seem basic, the amount of time, planning, and effort it takes to complete an installation is anything but; each transformation takes at least 3 weeks to complete!

The Töölö pattern designed by Suvi Kankkonen portrays life in Töölö. It represents the streets and courtyards of Töölö, the atmosphere of the neighbourhood, the sounds of trams, its houses, and its colours: a place full of life.

It is wonderful to be at home! Kotona is Anu Kanervo's pattern, which retells stories of homes in Töölö with the help of floor plans. The architecture is clear and spacious, and the floor plans invite you to start designing and decorating.
